EDITORS JOURNAL :- In the issue of your paper of the 12th inst., it was announced that Judge Sam'l Hall, of Princeton, Ind., died the day-before. When the spirit of such a man passes from this world, as we humbly trust to a better, the event should not be suffered to go by without a me notice of the character of the decemed. As an example to others, it seems proper that the even's of his life and those traits of Wilcoxen co I, Allison Taylor co --character for which he was most conspicuous, should be preserved. Judge Hall was a native of Maryland, where he was born in 1797. We do not know what year he removed thence to Jefferson E, Jas A Brogles co K. county Kentucky. had not the benefit of an early education, none but what the common schools rnished in Kentucky; yet, notwithstanding these disadvantages, and almost without instruction during the time he officiated as deputy Clerk, be qualified himself for the practice of law, and in 1820, if we recolect right, he was admitted Attorney and Counsellor of Law of the Court in which Princeton is situated. By industry and great energy, he soon stood in the front rank among the brethren in his profession He continued in the practice of law for twelve years or more, when he was elected Judge of the Circuit in which he practiced. As a lawyer, all who met him and who were opposed to him in any case, well knew that he would be perfectly prepared for combat—that nothing would be left undone that was necessary in order to present his cause in the most favorable light—that he would be fortified with all the armory the books could farnish, and that if he failed, It would not be because on his part anything which could be urged in behalf of his client had been neglected or forgotten. Many now living will testify to the able manne he administered justice while on the bench he was the enlightened and impartial judge. While engaged in the practice of law, previous to his being Judge, it was his custom to attend regularly the terms of the Supreme Court and he who looks

To illustrate the faithfulness and honesty with which he performed public trusts, we deem it not inappropiate to mention an anecdote that was related to us by a late Senator of Indiana. Some fault had been found with the Canal Commissioners at the time Judge Hall was one; some of their accounts were deemed too extravagant, and it was thought proper that an investigation of them should be had. When Judge In New York is definitely settled.
